

Introduction

Thank you for choosing the GA-101 Dual Instrument adapter. In order to get the maximum benefit of this product you need to read this manual to support all of the features available. Please visit our website for the latest info on products and features.

Safety Rules

- To ensure proper use of this product please carefully read through this user manual.
- Be wary of any sharp edges, uneven surfaces, metal parts, accessories and their packaging so as to prevent any possible injuries to you or damages to the product.
- Do not modify, repair or dismantle this product. Doing so may result in complete failure of the device, etc. All of which, are not covered under the warranty.
- Do not use any solvents or volatile liquids to clean this product.
- Do not use this product in a hazardous location.
- The package contains small parts and poses a CHOCKING HAZARD, particularly in children

Usage

- In order to use the adapter simply plug it into the instrument jack on your amplifier. The adapter circuitry is inside the adapter and there are no batteries needed.
- The GA-101 acts like a mixer cable so it isolates the two inputs. With a typical Y-cable, without any circuitry, you will find an interaction when plugging two guitars into the cable. However, with the GA-101 you can plug two instruments into the cable and not have any interaction like a typical Y cable.
- Typical applications are:
 - Students and teachers who want to play together into one amplifier.
 - Combining stereo guitar outputs into a single amplifier
 - Keeping 2 instruments plugged into an amplifier at a gig
 - Combining 2 instruments into one amplifier like a guitar and bass
